Three courses are held annually at this center.

One shoulder replacement course, with cadaver lab, is held annually.

This course seeks to familiarize the participants with the implementation of different shoulder endoprostheses. It features an international faculty.

In September of every year, two arthroscopy courses are held. Of these, one course caters to beginners and one course targets advanced arthroscopists.

The courses fluctuate, from year to year, between a focus on upper and lower extremities.

The number of participants is limited to 44 for each course. Students will have the opportunity to work for 9 hours in the cadaver lab, and be taught by international faculty members.
